THE TOWERS

From the painting by Jules Guérin

FOREWORD

Any Foreword in 1917 is meaningless, that does not put before all else the obligation of the University to serve the nation. When the nation has been imperilled in the past, the universities have responded without hesitation to the call. They have led, not followed. Whatever may be the service called for, now or later, Washington University, unless she is recreant to her trust, must earn the proud distinction of making good the promise of her name.

Book 1
University

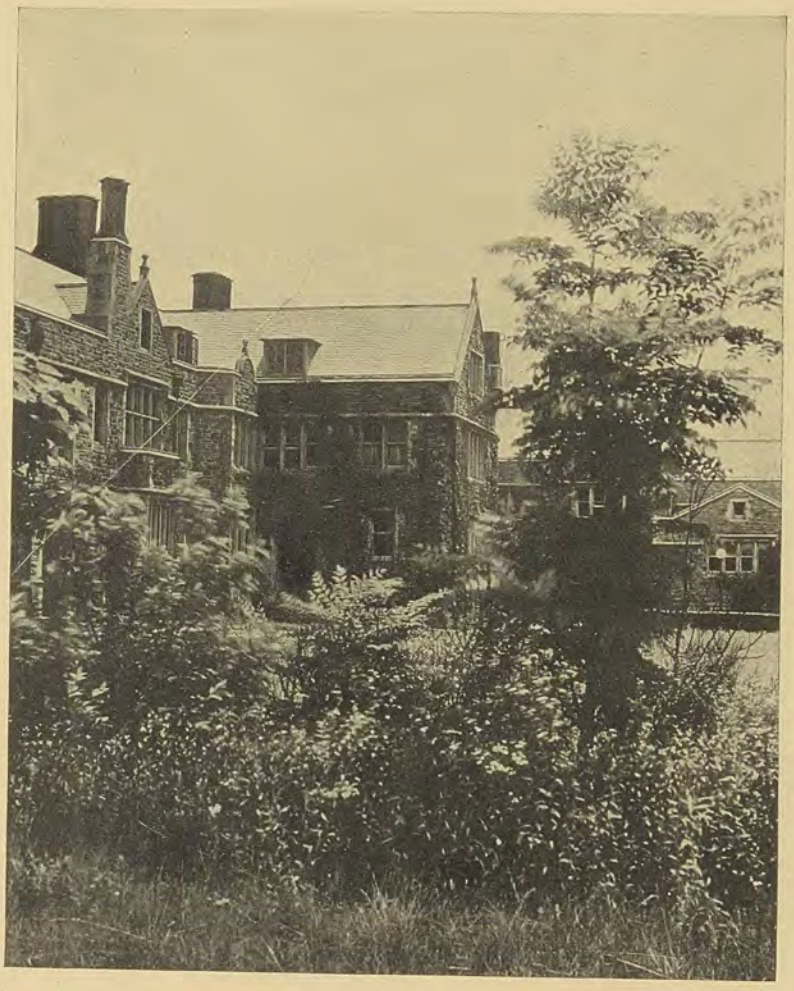

"The lighted towers which ever mark the spot"

"Where vulgar feet have never trod"

"Towers and battlements it sees Bosomed high in tufted trees"

"Amidst the foliage rise the ivy-covered walls"

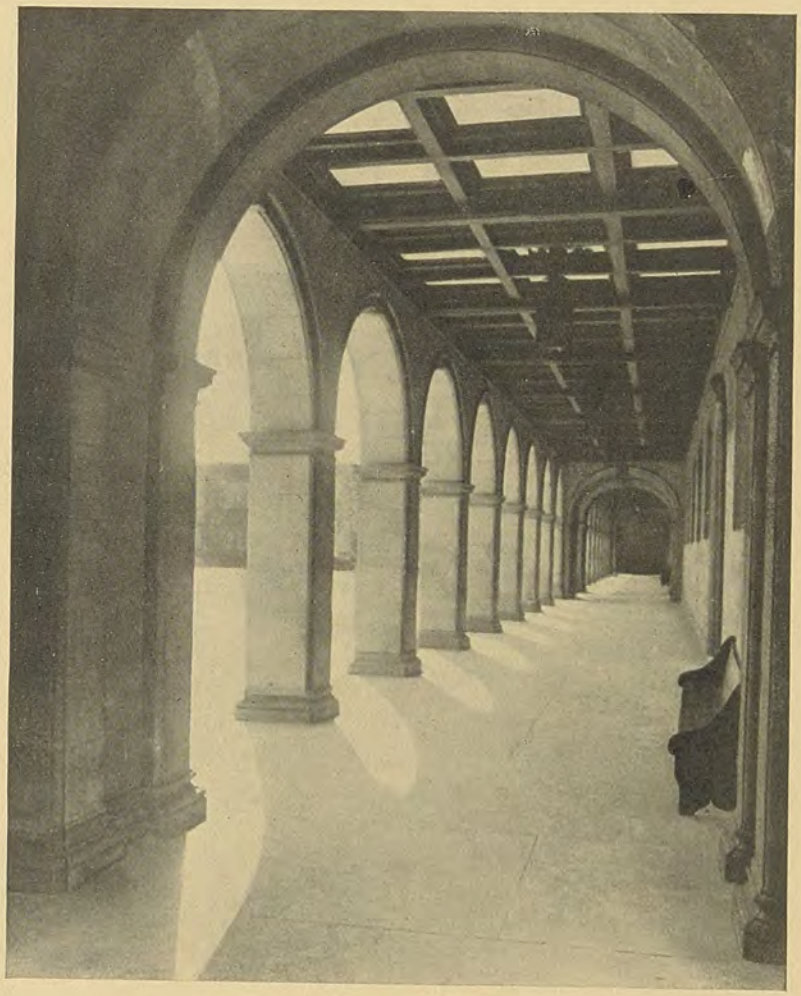

"Arch'd and ivy-claspt,
Of finest gothic"

"And add to these retired leisure
That in trim gardens takes his pleasure"

"That tower of strength
Which stood four-square to all the winds that blew"

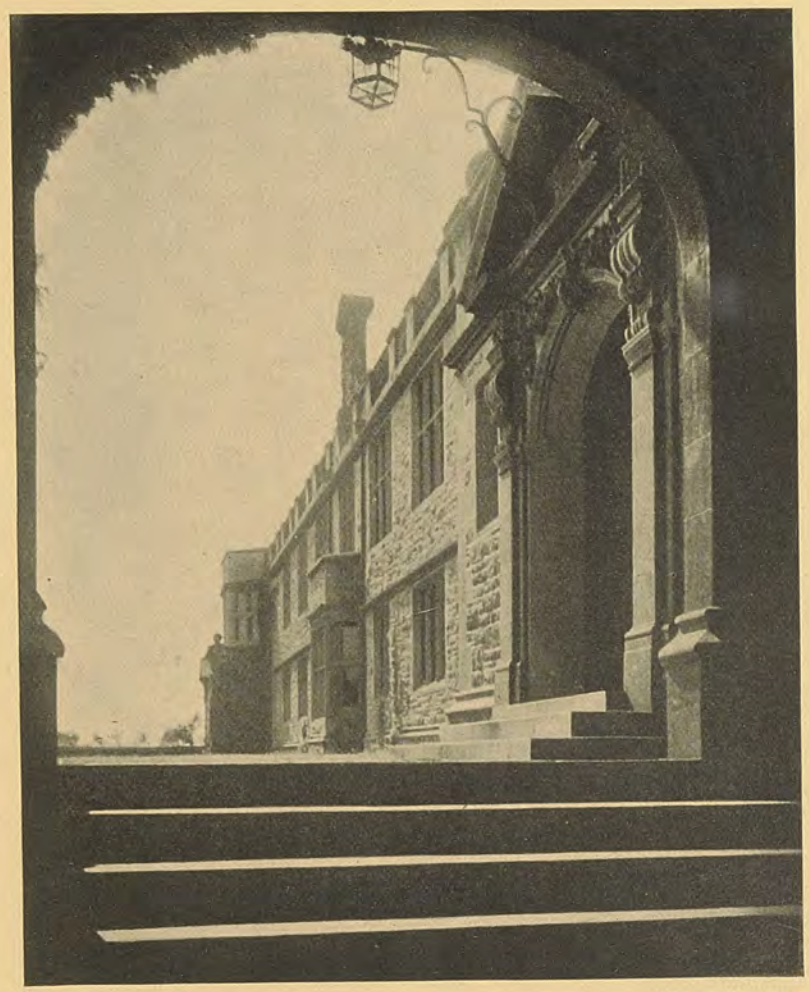

"Many an arch high up did lift"

"And storied windows richly dight
Casting a deep religious light"

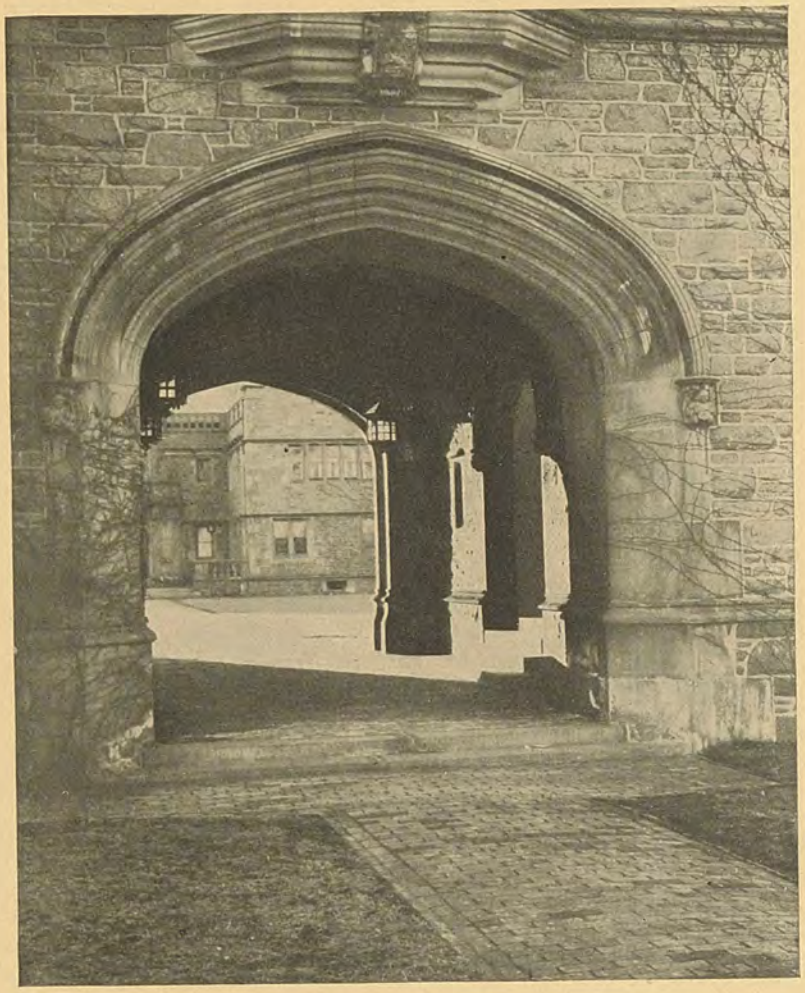

"Easy slopes and shadowy trees that lean"

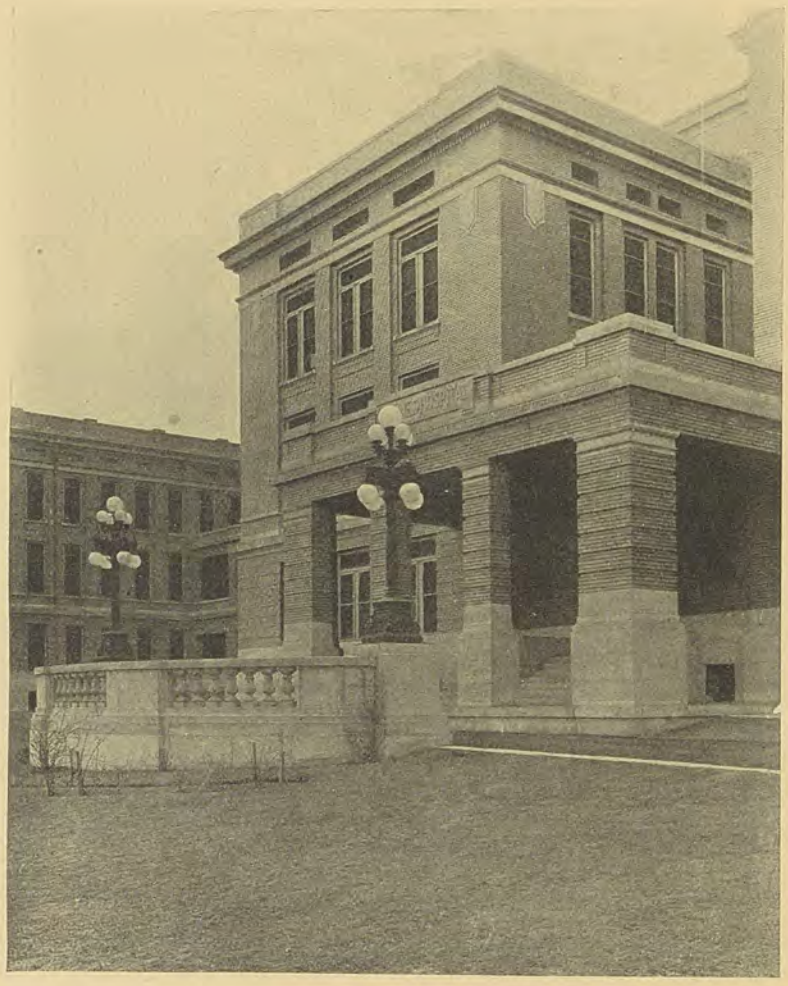

"Marking with silent hand the creeping hours"

"The terrace ranged along the northern front"

"The court, that lay three parts in shadow"

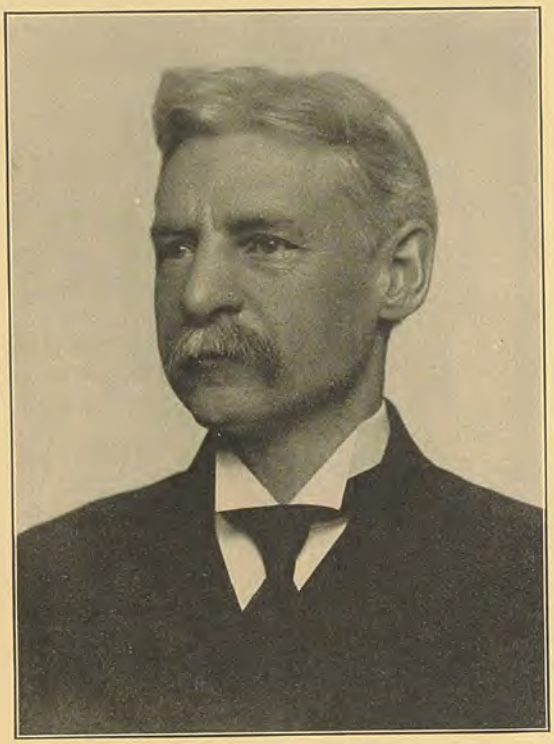

"Whatever man lies wounded, friend or foe, Shall enter if he will"

"A columned entry shone"

"Carved with figures strange and sweet
All made out of the carver's brain"

Frederic Aldin Hall, A.M., Litt.D., L.H.D., LL.D.

FREDERIC ALDIN HALL, Chancellor of Washington University; A.B., Drury College, 1878; A.M., 1881, Litt.D., 1901, Drury College; L.H.D., Tufts College, 1912; LL.D., Washington University, 1913; Principal, Drury Academy, 1879-1892; Goodell Professor of Greek, Drury College, 1892-1901; Dean, Drury College, 1898-1901; Collier Professor of Greek, Washington University, 1901; Dean of the College, 1912-1913; Acting Chancellor, 1913-1917; Trustee, Drury College; Director and Superintendent, St. Louis City Missionary Society, 1900-1910; Member, American Philological Association; Member, American Institute of Archæology; Member, Classical Association of the Middle West and South; Author of "Homeric Studies for Young Readers," "Outline of the Odyssey," "Outline of the Orestrian Triology," "Iphigenia in Literature."

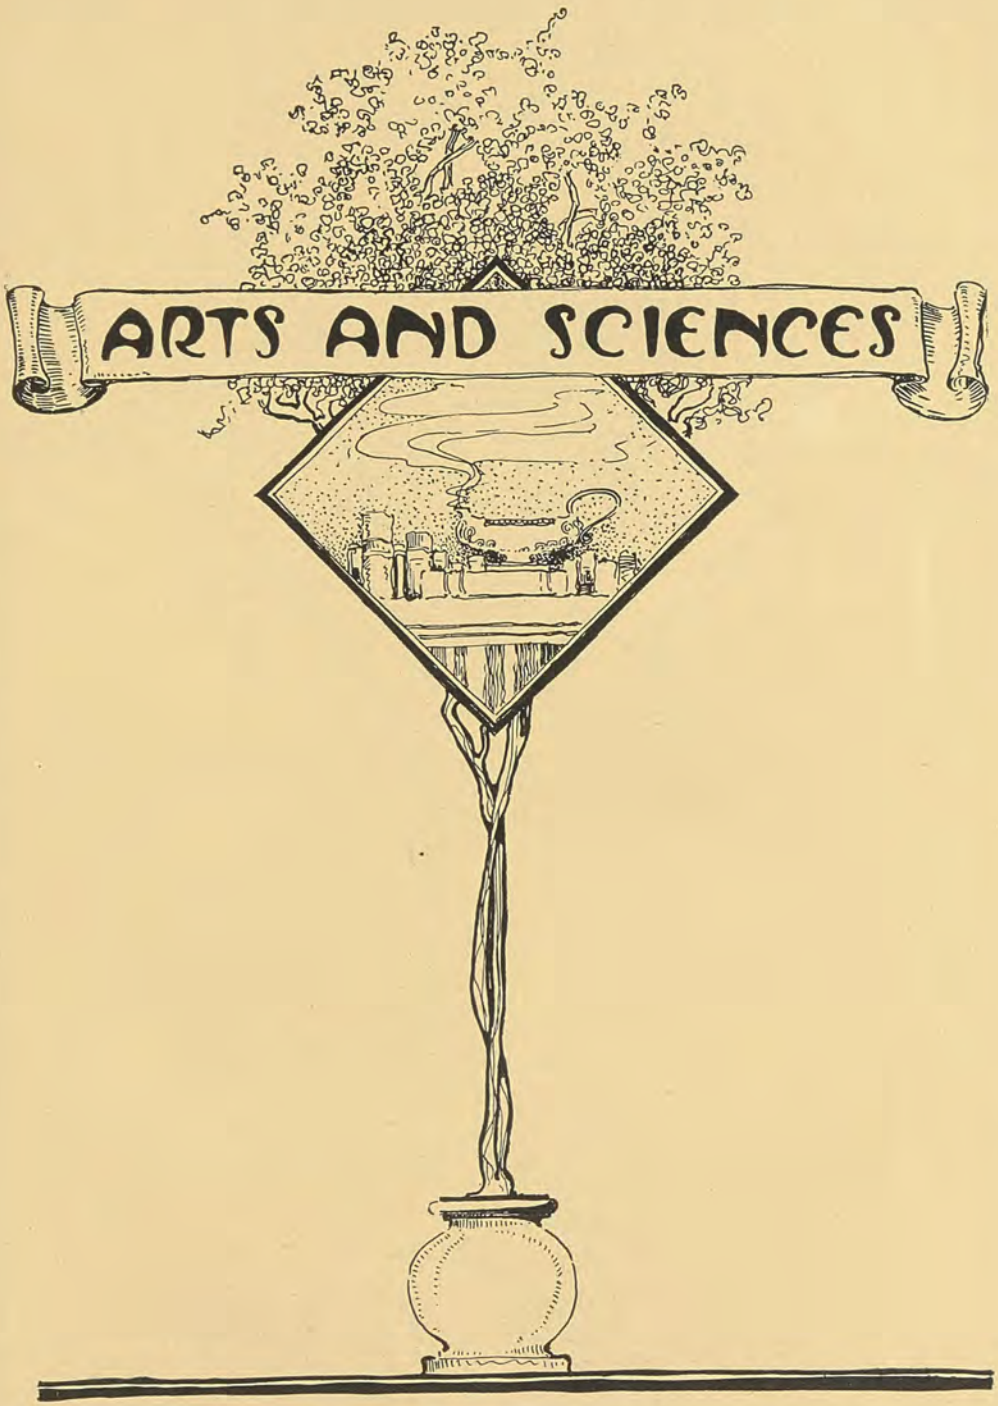

The New Chancellor

UPON the resignation of former Chancellor David F. Houston it was universally agreed that there was but one man to fill the position of Chancellor, and that man was Dr. Frederick A. Hall, Acting-Chancellor since 1913, when Dr. Houston was given a leave of absence to fill the post of Secretary of Agriculture in President Wilson's Cabinet. The former Chancellor's resignation was interpreted to mean that he was to remain in the Cabinet and was accepted by the Corporation at a meeting on January 3, 1917. At this meeting Dr. Hall was appointed to the position of Chancellor.

The appointment of Dr. Hall was in no way a surprise. It was felt that the former Chancellor would be offered another term in the Cabinet and Dr. Hall, as acting Chancellor, was the logical man for the position. The action of the Corporation received the immediate approbation of the people of St. Louis, and both the student body and faculty of Washington University.

Dr. Hall was born at Brunswick, Me., and was educated at Drury College, Springfield, Mo. He graduated in 1878, and was at once put in charge of Drury Academy. After thirteen years he resigned the principalship of the Academy to accept the Godell Professorship of Greek in Drury College. In the fall of 1901, Dr. Hall came to Washington as Professor of Greek. In 1906-07, he went to Athens on a leave of absence to study at first hand the language for which he had such a fondness. On his return he was appointed Acting Dean of the College, and was made Dean in 1911, which position he held until he was made Acting Chancellor.

1916 Rules for Class Fight

THE Class Fight Rules of 1916, drawn up by the Student Council, the administrative head of the contest, and approved by the Freshman and Sophomore Classes, were considerably different from the rules governing former fights.

Instead of the old tree fight, the contest was placed entirely on the ground by providing a seven-foot wood stockade surrounding a fourteen-foot wooden flagpole, upon which the Sophomore banner flew. The pole was neither to be greased nor otherwise treated to hinder anyone climbing it. There had to be one "dry" approach to the stockade, at least twenty feet wide. In breaking into the stockade, in which the Sophomores were stationed, the Freshmen could not employ ladders, dirt, or weapons other than two-foot ropes, with which the Sophomores also were provided. Use of the fist and kicking were prohibited.

The fight, held the night before the Christmas holidays, was to begin at seven o'clock at night. From seven until eleven both sides could capture men of the other side; from eleven to four in the morning no activity was allowed within the fight boundaries; from four to seven general fighting, except at the fortification, could take place. Then, from seven to nine, the battle for the Sophomore flag should wage. But should the Freshmen have not found the stockade by that time, they were given until eight o'clock, when they would be directed to it. If the Freshmen succeeded in securing the flag by nine o'clock they were adjudged the winners. If the flag still flew at that time the Sophomores were victorious.

The boundaries for the fight were: east, Pennsylvania avenue; north, Kirkwood-Ferguson tracks and Ladue road; west, McKnight road; south, Clayton road.

Under no circumstances could the fight cost either class over $100, and all structures erected had to be replaced by classmen only.

The penalty for the infringement of any rule was the disqualification of ten men picked by the president of the non-offending class.

The School of Fine Arts

WHAT is the significance of the School of Fine Arts? Is the Art School as worthy a department of the University as any other of its various branches, and if so, what is its particular merit?

Since prehistoric times, Art has ever been, not only the expression of the individual, but the epitome of the race of which he was a member and the period to which he belonged. Owing to this fact our judgment of the culture attained in any era, is based entirely upon the quality of its artistic achievements.

Viewed in this light, the responsibility of the School of Fine Arts is a very unique and a most serious one. It should give a great deal of satisfaction to anyone who terms himself in the least degree cultivated to know that in a building that cannot be truthfully designated as rain-proof, and working with inadequate equipment under all manner of discouraging conditions, there is an earnest and determined body who uphold standards of excellence as high as any in this country. Perhaps this statement seems unbelievable. One has but to see the exhibitions of work done in various other Art Schools to appreciate its veracity.

The teaching corps is composed of men who fully measure up to all requirements and their ability both as artists and instructors is indeed above any but the most expert criticism. They are indeed to the students a source of inspiration and stimulation to sincere and serious endeavor.

Among those who received their early training at the St. Louis School of Fine Arts are a large number of the strongest and most successful painters that this country has ever had, and if the existence of Washington University is known in places and among people with whom culture and refinement is paramount, it is due largely to the accomplishments of these men.

General Statement

THE School of Botany was established as a part of Washington University in 1885 as the result of an offer by Mr. Henry Shaw, of St. Louis, to endow a department devoted to botanical instruction and research. It was suggested that the school be placed in such relation with the Missouri Botanical Garden as to secure to the professors and students the most efficient results. In accepting the proposal of Mr. Shaw, the corporation named the department the Henry Shaw School of Botany and established a professorship of botany therein, to be known as the Engelmann professorship, in honor of Dr. George Engelmann.

Laboratories for undergraduate instruction are maintained at the University and the officers of instruction there are in close touch with the Garden, the extensive facilities of which are most important in many phases of the work. Graduate instruction is given at the Missouri Botanical Garden, where are found an excellent library of 32,785 bound volumes and 42,530 pamphlets, together with 112 volumes of very valuable manuscript; an extensive herbarium, including all classes of plants, contains 700,000 mounted specimens; and a new and well-equipped fire-proof laboratory.

Football, Season 1916

THERE is many a slip between the cup and the lip." That is an old, old saying, but it is just as true now as when Hannibal crossed the Alps. It looked like 1916 would see the Piker football cup get to the lip, but here is where the slip comes in. Washington was doped to have the best team in its history, but somehow it could not get itself hooked up with success. It happened that several opponents of the Pikers also had their best team in years, and it also happened that "Doc" Edmunds was rarely able to put his best team in the field intact. Under the handicap of numerous and costly injuries and the unforseen lack of a natural quarterback, the Coach found it a hard task to get his machine to running smoothly, and he succeeded in doing so only before the St. Louis game. But remember that the team which held the Valley champions to thirteen points when she had her strongest team in the field, and which crosses the inviolate Michigan goal line could only have been Washington's best team.

Washington opened the season on Francis Field by winning from Rose Polytechnic of Terre Haute in a hard fought game, score 14 to 0. A very warm day and a dusty field made conditions very unfavorable for football, consequently no real line could be gotten on the team. The game as a whole was very slow, much time being taken out by both sides. The first half was very even and ended with no score on either side, but in the second half the speed of "Pete" Pemberton won the day. Pemberton scored two touchdowns, one on a 95 yard dash, after intercepting a Poly pass, and the other on a beautiful 50 yard dash around end. Mark one game up for "Pete."

Four hundred Piker rooters saw the rampant Missouri Tigers score a hard fought victory over the Pikers, 13 to 0. The game was a thriller in every respect; the stubborn defense of the Pikers in the shadow of their goal posts, Dawson's brilliant kicks at the moment they could do the most possible good, and the irresistible interference of the Tigers which enabled their backs to make many long runs, all kept the rooters in a fever heat throughout the contest. Four times the Tigers rushed the ball to our goal line, and each time the Piker line held before Stankowski wiggled over in the second quarter. From then on it was a battle royal until the last quarter was waning when Stankowski's second touchdown removed all hope of a victory. The great playing of "Doc" Caffee at end and "Fritz" Foelsch at guard was the outstanding feature of Washington's great defense.

Nobody will admit that Drake possessed as strong an eleven as Missouri, yet Drake beat us by the same score the following Saturday. Maybe the carburetor was not getting enough gas, or the machine needed oiling, or maybe the boys just had an off day. Somehow our boys could not make any headway past the middle of the field, while on two occasions the Drake backs broke loose and rushed the ball the length of the field for touchdowns. At any rate Drake beat us fair and square on our own field.

Following the Drake game, "Doc" Edmunds juggled his men with reckless abandon until the following Saturday an entirely rearranged team took the field against Rolla. Teamwork was lacking to a large degree but by individual efforts the Miners were downed in a close game, score 7 to 6. In the second quarter Tom Dawson smashed through the line for six points, and Kling added the winning margin. Rolla scored in the third period on a series of well executed passes, the last of which resulted in a touchdown. Goal was missed. "Dick" Stout despite a weak knee played a brilliant game at half for the Pikers, his many pretty runs keeping the ball in Rolla's territory. He was ably seconded by Schwartzenbach, who showed a marked ability to follow his interference.

Three hundred men and sixty women, all rooters, journeyed to Ann Arbor on a special train to see Washington break into the "big league" against the mighty Wolverines. Yes, we were walloped good and proper as the 66 to 7 score would indicate, but it was worth it. Did not "Buddy" Kling politely grab an intended forward pass out of a Michigander's hands and outrun him 45 yards for a touchdown? He did; and every Piker rooter suffered a five minutes' stroke of insanity. To recount the game would be useless; Michigan was superior in weight, in strength, in speed, in experience and in everything except fight and there we had them. Every Piker fought to the last ditch and were rewarded by seven points. Busiek, at tackle, played a beautiful game, outcharging his opponent and continually breaking through for tackles behind the line. Anyway, we saw Ann Arbor, we saw "Mauley," we saw the Pikers fight and score and we had a heluva time.

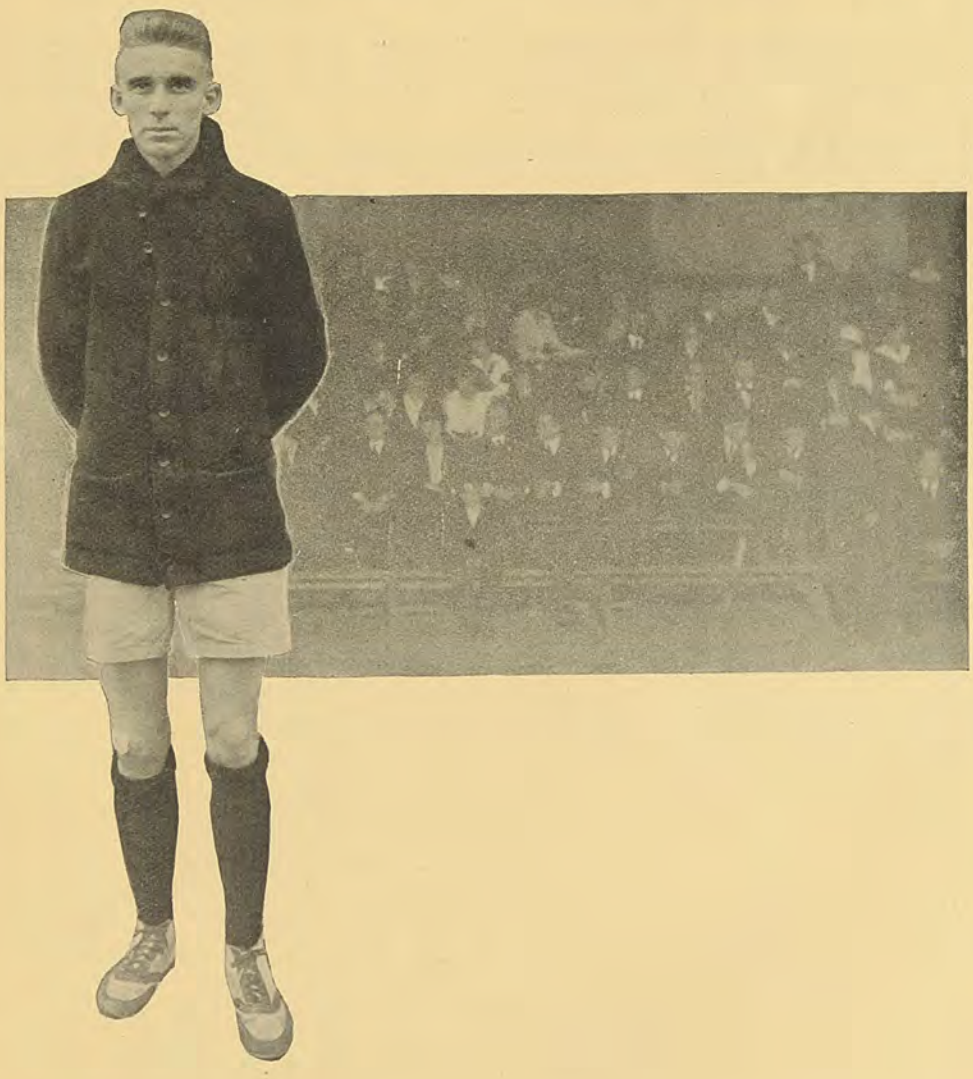

Knox came to town just a trifle too quick after the Michigan battle.

Our men were just beginning to breathe easily when Knox's best team in years held us to a 7-7 tie game. Fumbles were the cause of all our troubles; a fumble gave Knox a touchdown and many fumbles spoiled innumerable opportunities to score. Knox also fumbled quite a bit but every time a Knox man recovered. There you are, and every time we fumbled a Knox man got the ball. Bridgeford was a lucky Knox man to pick up a fumble on his ten yard line and gallop all the way for a touchdown. The Pikers scored just before the half ended by a series of dashing runs by Schwartzenbach and a double pass to Kling over the goal line.

The climax of the season came on November 30, alias Turkey Day, when Washington administered the third straight defeat to St. Louis University. It was a game in which everything was at stake for both teams and the score, 9 to 0, will indicate that it was the hardest fought battle of the year. The Pikers for the first time since the Missouri game showed a smooth running, finely conditioned machine which was powerful to score a touchdown and a goal from the field and to hold the Billikens in check the only time they became dangerous. The outstanding feature of the game was the all-round play of retiring Captain Busiek. "Bon" not only smashed the opposing line at will on the defense, but scored the lone touchdown after gaining a hundred yards himself in the fourth quarter. "Buddy" Kling, Captain for 1917, more than earned that honor by his brilliant defensive play and a beautiful field goal from the 38 yard line. More than ten thousand rooters packed Francis Field.

Basketball, Season 1917

THE 1916 Basketball Season may be classed neither as a success, nor a failure. True the Pikers won but one out of twelve games played in the Conference, but on the other hand they won the city collegiate championship for the third straight time from St. Louis U; and defeated the C. A. C. quintet, one of the best teams in this section. And it must be remembered that Fricke's men were continually handicapped by serious injuries at most critical times, a lack of substitutes of high caliber; and what is probably most potent, a "green" team. The Pikers, nevertheless, were always a dangerous opponent, and never failed to put up a hard scrap, being usually deprived of the fruits of victory by superior stamina in the final moments of play.

The two St. Louis U. games were won in handy fashion. The first game at Francis Gymnasium resulted in victory by a score of 33 to 20, due to the great work of Duncker, who caged eight field goals. The second game at Muegge's was a rough and tumble affair with the Pikers completely outplaying their opponents by a score of 41 to 24.

Rolla called for two games at Francis Gymnasium and took home the short end of both, 33 to 9 and 27 to 11. The Pikers were too much for the inexperienced Miners, only a tendency to loaf preventing two overwhelming scores.

The first game of the season resulted in a defeat at the hands of C. A. C. by a score of 45 to 21. The Tangled C men were too strong and experienced for their "green" rivals, consequently the defeat. The bright spot of the game was Kamp's guarding of Von Dach and the all-round play of centerman, Thomas. The Pikers gained ample revenge two weeks later by whipping the same team at Francis Gym in the best and most exciting game of the season. The Piker guarding was so close that C. A. C. obtained only five baskets, thirteen fouls by Hodge alone keeping them in the running.

Washington lost the first two encounters to Missouri because of a bad attack of stage fright.

All hopes of success on the trip to Lawrence and Manhattan were ruined by the injury to Kamp, and the consequent disruption of team play when "Toddy's" knee cracked the first night against the Aggies, the Piker defense went to pieces, giving the Aggies two easy games, 34 to 17, and 46 to 17. At Kansas a braver stand was made, but the reserve strength was not there and the result was two more defeats.

The first game at home resulted in a victory over Kansas, 23 to 16. The next night saw Kansas turn the tables, overwhelming our exhausted boys in the last minutes of play.

The Pikers played real basketball against the Aggies, but it might be added that the Aggies played considerable ball themselves. Although defeated the Pikers fought to the last ditch and gave the clean playing Farmers a great run for their money. Only the fact that they were playing champions, deprived the Piker brand of play from winning.

The two final games against Missouri were a combination of basket ball-wrestling-football. For excitement these games could not be beaten. The Tigers nosed out a 23 to 19 victory the first night due to the great work of Williams, who scored seventeen points. The second night's play resulted in a 31 to 22 defeat for the Pikers, but it might be added that a student of Missouri U. was refereeing, the Tigers refusing to play if he did not referee. This game was featured by the brilliant guarding of Williams by Kamp, each getting two field goals. The games were replete with circus shots by Benway, Duncker and Kamp.

1916 Track Season

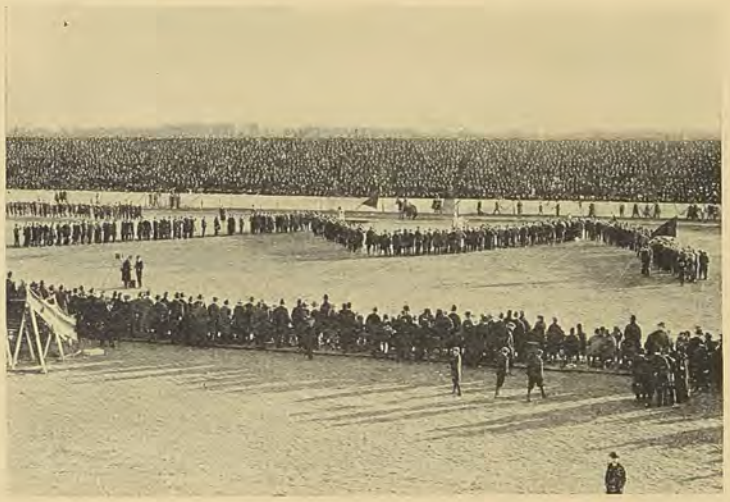

MORE men responded to Coach Edmund's call for track practice this spring than ever before. These men also came out regularly all during the season, and give promise of forming a highly successful track team next spring. The 1916 season was a success, although the records may not seem to bear this statement out, because it brought out many good men with several years of competition left, and it stirred up a promising interest in track athletics.

A Dual Meet with Knox College came on May 6th, which did not result so favorably for Washington. Several of the men who were counted upon to score heavily failed signally and consequently Knox took home the long end of a 58 1-3 to 49 2-3 score.

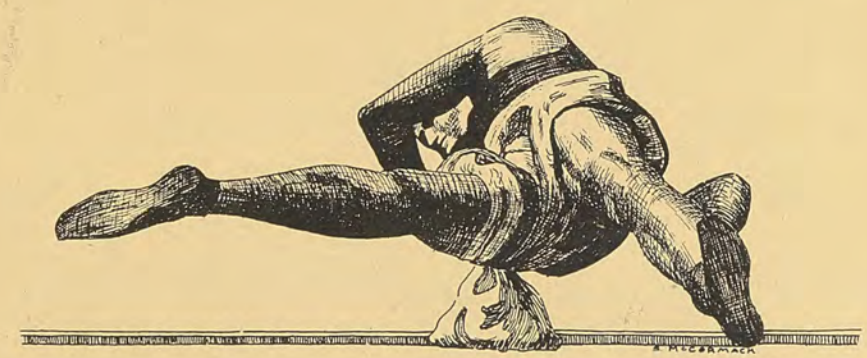

On May 13th, Washington easily captured a three-cornered meet from McKendree College and the Southern Illinois Normals. The feature of the meet were two splendid runs by Brady and Rawlings. Brady set a new Washington record in the half mile when he ran the distance in 2:02 2-5.

Rolla won the dual meet on the following Saturday by a score of 69 to 52. While offering no alibis it must be said that we were without the services of Marsh and Stites, which reduced our possible total a good bit. The feature of the meet was the two hairline finishes of Imlay and Pemberton in the dashes. Each time, the speedy Miner beat "Pete" by an eyelash. This meet ended the 1916 track season at Washington.

Washington loses such excellent men this year as Leuking, Bubb, Kammerer, Leopold, and Brady, all of whom have been hard and consistent workers on the track for the Myrtle and Maroon.

Women's Athletics

AN increased interest was shown in athletics this year by the women of Washington. The activities were, as usual, the tennis matches, the hockey, basketball and baseball interclass games, the swimming and the indoor meets. The new events of this season were the series of outdoor basketball games and the field meet. A get-together luncheon, which over a hundred women attended, was given at the beginning of October to arouse interest in athletics.

This year, a new plan concerning dress was adopted. A navy blue uniform for outdoor sports was required of all students who took the compulsory gymnasium work, and also of those who participated in all games on the athletic field.

Another new factor was the course in playground management. This was for the benefit of girls who do summer work in the city playgrounds, as well as for those who expect to teach in the grades or small town high schools. Besides this, an excellent course in anatomy at the Medical School was open, especially to women interested in playground work or in physical education.

The first activity was tennis. The singles were won by Jessamine Price, who will have her name engraved on the Brookings cup. Helen Johnston and Jessamine Price, of the class of '18, won the doubles.

Next came the hockey season which was a great success. Each class played every other in a preliminary series; then the two winners, the Seniors and Juniors, competed for the championship in a series of three games. The Class of '18 was victorious for the second consecutive year.

Basketball began just before the holidays. Games were played the last week in February and the first in March. The plan of playing each other class in a preliminary series and a series of three games for the championship was adopted. The Juniors proved themselves worthy of the championship for 1917. A few weeks after this, basketball games were played on the new out-door courts by a fresh set of teams.

Besides arousing an interest in athletics at Washington, we have been able to show a broader outlook in athletics for women by sending a delegate to the First Conference of Western College Women's Athletic Associations, held at Madison, Wisconsin, on March ninth and tenth.

Thyrsus Review

Scene from "The Importance of Being Earnest"

THYRSUS presented "Mrs. Dot," a three-act comedy by W. S. Maugham, at the Victoria Theater on the evening of April 4th. The audience was large and very appreciative of the talented and finished style of the actors. The settings were very artistic, and the acting showed the effective result of hard work.

All the cast deserve great praise for their productions. Mrs. Dot herself was played admirably. Miss Alice Johann, in this part, should receive most of the credit. The part was a difficult one, owing to the many shifts of mood and the necessity for continual liveliness, but Miss Johann carried it off in fine style. Miss Mildred Brookes, as Nellie Sellinger, was very effective, and struck the exact note of her role. Miss Rachel Metcalfe, in the part of Lady Sellinger, and Miss Frances Duffet, as Eliza MacGregor, the maiden aunt, were very good in the minor parts. Of the men, Mr. Sommers had the hardest work to do, but he played his part of Blenkinsop, the bachelor, with ability. In the part of Gerald Halstane, the hero, Mr. Sharon acted with great skill and dignity. Freddie, the secretary, was played by Mr. Drey, who showed his usual ability and talent. Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Swender made discreet and interesting servants.

On May 10, Thyrsus showed its skill in another line. "The Maid of McMillan," a two-reel "movie," filmed on the campus and enacted by Thyrsus members, was presented at the Univee Surkuss to the great delight of Washington University students. Gordon Morrison was the hero and Dean McDaris, the heroine. The other principal was Phil Bryan, who played the part of the hick. The story was one concerned with life at Washington, in which a great track meet figured, and was varied with such thrilling events as an elopement, hold-up, etc. This gave an opportunity for the whole club to act in many scenes.

The first monthly play of the new season, "Arms and the Man," a comedy by Bernard Shaw, was presented on November 23 and 24. A cast of eight characters, many of whom were new on the Thyrsus stage, carried the action through a complicated series of events, involving the pursuit of a Swiss adventurer, who takes refuge in a lady's bedroom. Adele Grafeman played the feminine lead, and was ably supported by Minette Buddecke and Mildred Hess. Dan Bartlett, as the Swiss soldier, acted his part with ease and skill. Roland Tait, Victor Hoester, Edward Byrd, and Sylvester Horn were the other members of the cast.

On the evenings of December 19 and 20, Thyrsus gave its next play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde. The play was a clever one and the acting unusually good. The plot was the story of events resting on the pun made on the last word of the title. Frances Wendl, as Cicely Cardew, made a very attractive heroine. H. Clarke Venable and Phil Bryan played the parts of the Englishmen who discovered the importance of being "Earnest." Tom Birdsall, Kathleen Lucy, Vera Dauernheim, Grace Lewis and Calvin Hermer filled the remaining places in the cast.

Glee and Mandolin Clubs, Season of 1917

THIRTY-FIVE members of the combined Glee and Mandolin Club left the Union Station on Tuesday morning, January the ninth, for the annual trip of the musical clubs. While en tour the Club appeared at Farmington, Charleston, Sikeston, and Cape Girardeau, Missouri.

The first stop was made at Farmington. The thirty-five arrived there at midday; and in the afternoon a tea was given in their honor. That evening the Washingtonians presented their program to a large and appreciative audience. And later the stay in Farmington was consummated with an enjoyable dance.

The next evening found the entertainers at Charleston. Here the boys were again successful in amusing the crowd.

On Thursday morning the Club favored the students of the High School of Sikeston with a few selections. The Club appeared in concert that evening. As an indication of their appreciation, the townspeople received the musicians most hospitably.

The tour was concluded with the concert given at Cape Girardeau. Here, too, the boys were extensively entertained. And the performance was attended by an enthusiastic audience.

Upon returning to St. Louis on January thirteenth, the Club felt confident that it had made a success. Not only was that fact true, but everyone knew that the Club had enjoyed the most successful trip that a group of musicians from Washington University had ever experienced. Owing to the fact that the Club was "keyed up to the top notch" through its previous practice, the Annual St. Louis Concert of January seventeenth at the Victoria Theater was a pronounced triumph. H. A. H.

Glee and Mandolin Club Concert

A LARGE audience of well pleased patrons attended the Annual Concert of the Combined Glee and Mandolin Club in the Victoria Theater on the evening of Wednesday, January seventeenth. Judging from comments made upon the merits of the performance, the varied and well selected numbers on the program were rendered effectively and made an impression upon the attentive audience.

The Glee Club scored with its opening number, "Immortal Music," by Robyn; but the "songsters" showed their real caliber by an excellent production of Dudley Buck's "Hark! The Trumpet Calleth!" This work was indeed rivaled by the delightful and finished playing of Rossini's "William Tell" and Charles Gounod's "Sing, Smile, Slumber," by the Mandolin Club.

The Varsity Quartette, composed of Messrs. Phelps, Lyon, Harlan, and Becker, showed up to advantage in diversified selections. Various combinations of Mandolin Club members, namely, the Mandolin Club Quartette, the Banjo Quintette, and the Musical Four, consisting of Messrs. Horn, Tucker, Preston, and Brooks, added much to the pleasing effect of the program and were encored many times.

Solo work was successfully done by Milton Tucker on the violin. Walter Bode in a "takeoff" on Carmen, Hughes and Bartlett as blackface comedians; Robert Harlan in an imitation of Harry Lauder, and Herbert Hausman in song. This solo work contrasted with the more concerted forms of entertainment of the evening, lent a charming variation of program.

Therefore the performance was a decided success. However, it was such not only from the point of view of quality, but also from the point of view of finance.

Washington University Alumni Association

FROM the graduation of the first class of the Undergraduate Department in 1862, down to date, there has existed an Alumni Association, with regularly elected officers and periodic meetings.

On April 14, 1887, the alumni of the Undergraduate Department adopted the constitution and by-laws of "The Alumni Association of Washington University," stating its objects to be the advancement of the interests of the University by such means as may from time to time seem best and the encouragement of mutual acquaintance among the members. Any graduate of any department, upon receiving his or her degree, is eligible to membership.

The Association keeps a roster of the graduates of the College and Engineering School, with correct addresses; has noted the deaths of its members; and has published periodically several bulletins containing this data, thereby doing a service valuable to the University and the alumni. Each new class on graduation selects a secretary to assist the Corresponding Secretary of the Association in the maintenance of the Alumni Roster.

A business meeting is held annually for the transaction of business and the election of officers, and an annual alumni dinner is had on the Saturday in February nearest to Washington's Birthday. Other meetings of a business or social nature are held on call, of which especial mention should be made of the luncheons frequently given on Commencement Day to welcome the graduating class. For many years the alumni resident in New York and Chicago have held annual meetings.

The Association has a fund placed with its Executive Committee to afford financial aid to deserving students.

Although drawing its members from the graduates of all departments, the main support of the Association is derived from the graduates of the College and Engineering School.

The Annual Alumni Banquet

THE Annual Alumni Banquet at the City Club on February 17th, was, in every respect, a most remarkable gathering of Washington University graduates. There were one hundred and twenty-seven alumni and thirteen guests present, an attendance nearly double that of any meeting in recent years. Thirty-two of the last forty classes were represented.

The Class of 1914 entered the Banquet Hall en masse, effectually tardy and in costume and were unanimously awarded First Prize for Attendance, Deportment and Mechanical Noise. They occupied the central table, immediately in front of the speakers, and were flanked on each side by the Class of '15 and '16, sitting at long tables. The justly famous aggregations of '05 and '07 occupied adjoining tables in a distant corner, far from the repressive influence of the head table.

At the conclusion of the disorder, President Chaplin, '96, called on Mr. George H. Pegram, '77, to describe "Washington University from an Eastern Viewpoint." Mr. Pegram who, aside from being an alumnus, is also Chief Engineer of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company of New York, and incidentally is President of the American Society of Civil Engineers, had made the trip solely to attend this banquet. He spoke of the big things Washington men have done and are doing in the East and of the extent to which the reputation of the University has been established there.

Dr. Nipher recounted some incidents illustrating the seriousness of purpose of the students in the earlier days of the University and showed the rapidity with which these men had achieved prominence after graduation.

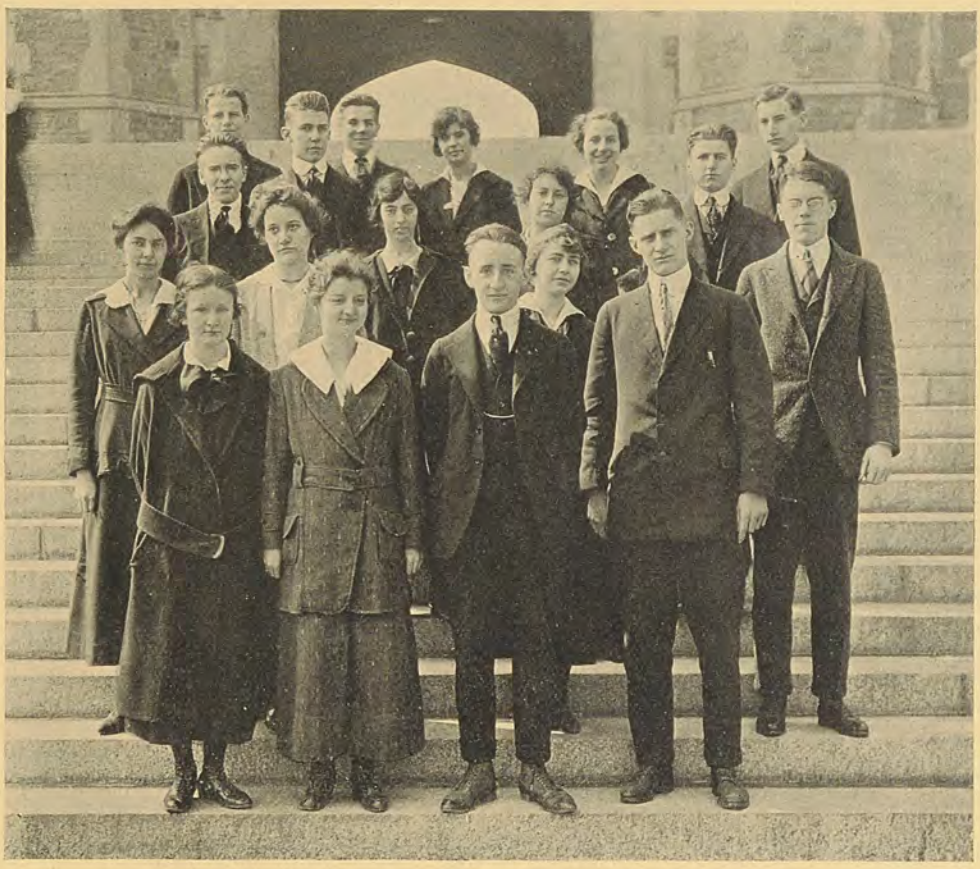

Dr. Engler, for the Class of '74, which was the first class represented at the meeting, produced further evidence of the laurels which our earlier graduates have placed at the foot of Alma Mater.

Mr. Robert Brookings, President of the Board of Directors, told of the development of the institution and of some of its present problems. He told of the need for further additional buildings and also of the value, which an Alumni Fund, similar to the Yale scheme, would be to the University.

Judge W. H. Allen, '94, speaking of "Our Debt to the University," suggested that the Alumni of the University are now well able to assume some responsibility in the financial conduct of the University's affairs and stated that the Association should decide at once what phase of the work it should aid and what means should be used to raise the necessary funds.

At the conclusion of these serious matters, President Chaplin proceeded to relieve himself of further responsibility for the meeting, which thereupon returned to that state of carefree goodfellowship which had marked the earlier hours.

In order to satisfy students of the University who were interested in discussing not only the poetry of "real poets" but also their own original compositions, the Poetry Club was organized. In order to prove to the Committee for Admissions that he is truly interested in the writing of poetry, an applicant for membership must write an original poem. The Poetry Club has no formal meetings nor organization. It meets twice a month with a despot, chosen from the members, presiding.

DANDELION —DAY—

Book 5 Review

The Year

THE year, which the Hatchet editors are bound to chronicle, has been a very pleasant one. In all things which the University students have taken part there has been success. But this success has only come as a result of earnest endeavor.

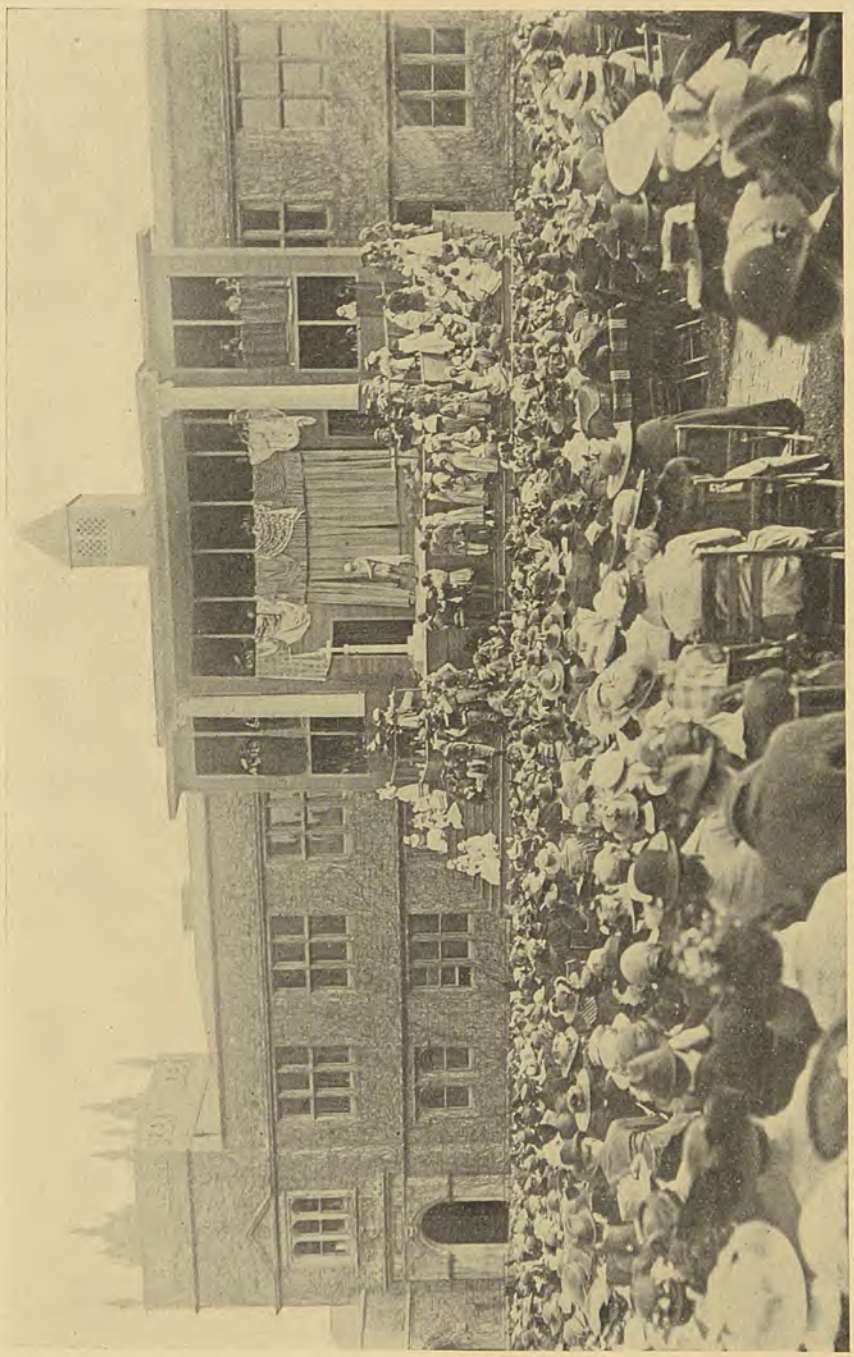

Never has there been greater coöperation between faculty, students and alumni than there has been this year. The Washington Union has grown from a struggling, embryonic organization into an established power in all affairs pertaining to the University. Through it, University people are enabled to know each other's true natures, an opportunity not given to them in the class-room.

The University staged a great Elizabethan pageant to do Washington's part in celebrating the Shakespearean Tercentenary in the spring. The magnitude of this pageant was unsurpassed by anything attempted in the Middle West. Later the Dramatic Club gave its most successful annual play and Pralma staged a Surkuss which has never been equaled at Washington.

This has been a good year in athletics. While the teams have not won any championships nor rolled up any tremendous scores, there has existed a clean fighting spirit in all branches of sport. The rooters have been Washington's pride. The number of students who traveled all the way to Ann Arbor with the football team showed that Washington has now as good a supporting student body as any university.

Throughout the year, clubs which merely existed before at Washington have awakened from their long sleep and accomplished much, through the efforts of two or three active leaders. In fact, it might be said that every campus activity and organization had reached its highest point of efficiency, March, 1917.

But as we go to press the students' interest in their own welfare and the welfare of the school has lessened. All interest is now bent upon the welfare of the nation. And in event the worst should happen and the whole country be plunged into a great war, it may be expected that the Washington men will do as much for their country as they have always done for their school.

The Elizabethan Pageant

The Elizabethan Pageant

EVERY college year has its biggest event. Washington's "biggest event" last year was the Shakespearian Tercentenary Celebration or Elizabethan Pageant. On Thursday, April 27, and on Saturday, April 29, "The Old Wives' Tale," "The Hue and Cry After Cupid," and the Revesby Sword Play, which comprised the pageant, were artistically and, above all, successfully produced by the university.

"The Old Wives' Tale," the most elaborate of the three productions, took place on the main quadrangle, where a huge wooden stage had been erected, adjoining Busch Hall. The stage rose some ten feet in the air with a gallery and wings towering above. Here, while the court ladies in the gallery above smiled and whispered, and the peasants below scoffed and prattled, Peele's play was presented.

Not far away in McMillan courtyard scenes were different. There, in the "Hue and Cry After Cupid," the grace and beauty of the university danced about on the greensward, their beauty enhanced by picturesque costumes and surroundings. Then followed the Revesby Sword Play, particularly pleasing to the public for it was really funny with its Fool, Dragon, Pickled Herring, Maid Cecily, and the rest.

These performances at McMillan were given simultaneously with that of the "Old Wives' Tale." Then followed a brief intermission while the two great audiences interchanged. After this the three plays were repeated and the pageant closed with the day.

From the start to the finish the pageant created an Elizabethan atmosphere which was well appreciated by most of the spectators. It was a rich display of color, a manipulation of talent and training, and above all it was purely Washingtonian. But since it is the spectator's opinion that holds, an article from the Drama League Monthly criticising the Pageant might well be printed here:

"Perhaps the most important among the many diversions offered the delegates at the convention by the St. Louis Center was the performance of picturesque plays presented under the auspices of the Washington University and the Washington University Association; namely, Peele's Old Wives' Tale, the Revesby Swords Play and Ben Jonson's Hue and Cry After Cupid."

VNIVEE

The Univee Surkuss

FROM the questionable recesses of Bill McSorley's Hinges of Hell; from the long surface of the slippery slide; from the tent which held the Seven Anomalies of the World; in fact from every booth and stand on the grounds came near profanity as gamblers lost their money, merry shrieks as co-eds and co-ops came down the slide arm in arm, and the steady monotonous drone of the barkers. These and a myriad of other sounds and calls, mingling with the stale odor of hot dogs and soda pop, ascended into the air in a voluptuous cadence creating the intangible atmosphere which was the Surkuss of 1916.

Threatened at first by the wind and by potential rain clouds Pralma's frolic turned out to be what was and what will be for a long time generally conceded the best Surkuss ever held on the campus. To enumerate all the shows would require too great space. The Surkuss must be recounted, as it will be remembered, only as a whole.

Miss Margaretha Roth was elected Queen at the voting booth, which has customarily been a part of the Lock and Chain contribution. Beside the voting booth, the Sophomore society gave a dance after the Surkuss and operated a sort of a ducking pond, and "one-nigger-baby-down-one-cigar" game in which, if the ball were pitched accurately, a member of the Lock and Chain was precipitated into a tank of water underneath.

The Architects, as usual, presented a burlesque show. However, it proved a disappointment to many of the masculine visitors. The suggestiveness of the name caused not a few men to eschew the company of their ladies for a few minutes at the Persian Burlesque; but it was not that kind of an exhibit. The Seven Anomalies of the World consisting of the shortest and tallest men in the world, a Hula-Hula dancing girl, a three-legged woman, an iron-jawed woman, an eater of safety razor blades and the missing link, enjoyed tremendous popularity. Similarly the Engineers' Vaudeville and the Pre-Medics' futuristic surgery corralled not a few of the furtive shekels. There were even games of chance where you might lose your money—if such expedients were necessary.

But the lure of the movies inherent to the Twentieth Century caused crowds to fill the concession of Thyrsus in every one of its seven or eight shows. The members of Thyrsus showed convincingly that their abilities were not confined to the legitimate drama but extended also to the movie field. "The Maid of McMillan" was Thyrsus' first venture into the realm of cinemetography; and, indeed, one of the first films that any college dramatic club has produced. As characterized by a gushing Freshman girl, the movie show was "perfectly darling." And so it was.

So was the whole Surkuss—with some modifications.

Bonfire

WITH the aid and financial support of the Union, the Bonfire this year was a great deal of a success. Bonfires for years at Washington have been desultory affairs. A few students have each time fought their way near to the fire through several hundred yards of very wet mud, listened to a few speeches which were not astonishingly clever, eaten a few half-cooked hot dogs, and then gone home with the feeling that they might have spent a much more enjoyable evening at a moving picture show.

This year the Union staged a trick athletic meet in the Gymnasium before the fire was lighted. There were all kinds of events, from a boxing match to a pie-eating contest. After this, the mud outside didn't seem so bad, the speeches didn't seem so poor or the food so underdone. The whole affair was well managed and quite typical of Washington spirit.

St. Fatima's Day

According to their custom the Architects, on January 24, prayed long and earnestly to Allah for aid in the coming mid-year examinations. Their prayers and rites marked the annual celebration of St. Fatima's Day. There was the usual train of Oriental servants, dancers, and dignitaries. St. Fatima awoke to her annual kiss, prayed to Allah, and departed to her Oriental seclusion for another year. The dancing of the five royal dancers was declared to be the best seen out of the Imperial Russian Ballet. Members of the faculty were present by proxy and offered explanations and apologies for their evil deeds.

McMillan Vaudeville

THE program for the annual McMillan Vaudeville consisted of six acts. There was everything in the theatrical line, from a direful tragedy to a sentimental dance by the ailments of Spring. These were staged by the girls of McMillan Hall, Y.W.C.A., and members of the four sororities. Three hundred people were jammed into the narrow confines of the Thyrsus Theater to witness the clever productions.

A one-act comedy entitled "A Victrola Shop," put on by the girls of McMillan.

This was followed by real musical talent displayed on the wonderful zymphony zarcheztree of the Thetas.

In deep contrast to these two "stunts" was a clever "take-off" entitled, "The Tremendous Tragedy of Dido, Queen of Carthage," written and staged by members of Tau Upsilon.

Spring fever, coughs, grippe, measles, mumps and influenza featured the Deta Gamma contribution, "Around the World with Spring."

Pi Beta Phi came next with "Wanted—a Wife." Applicants were shown who answered a young man's advertisement in the morning paper for a wife.

The last act of the day by Y.W.C.A. was "Twelfth Hour," by Shakesbeer. The scene of the outrage was laid in the campus of the University of Padua, during a chapel hour in mediaeval days.

Dandelion Day

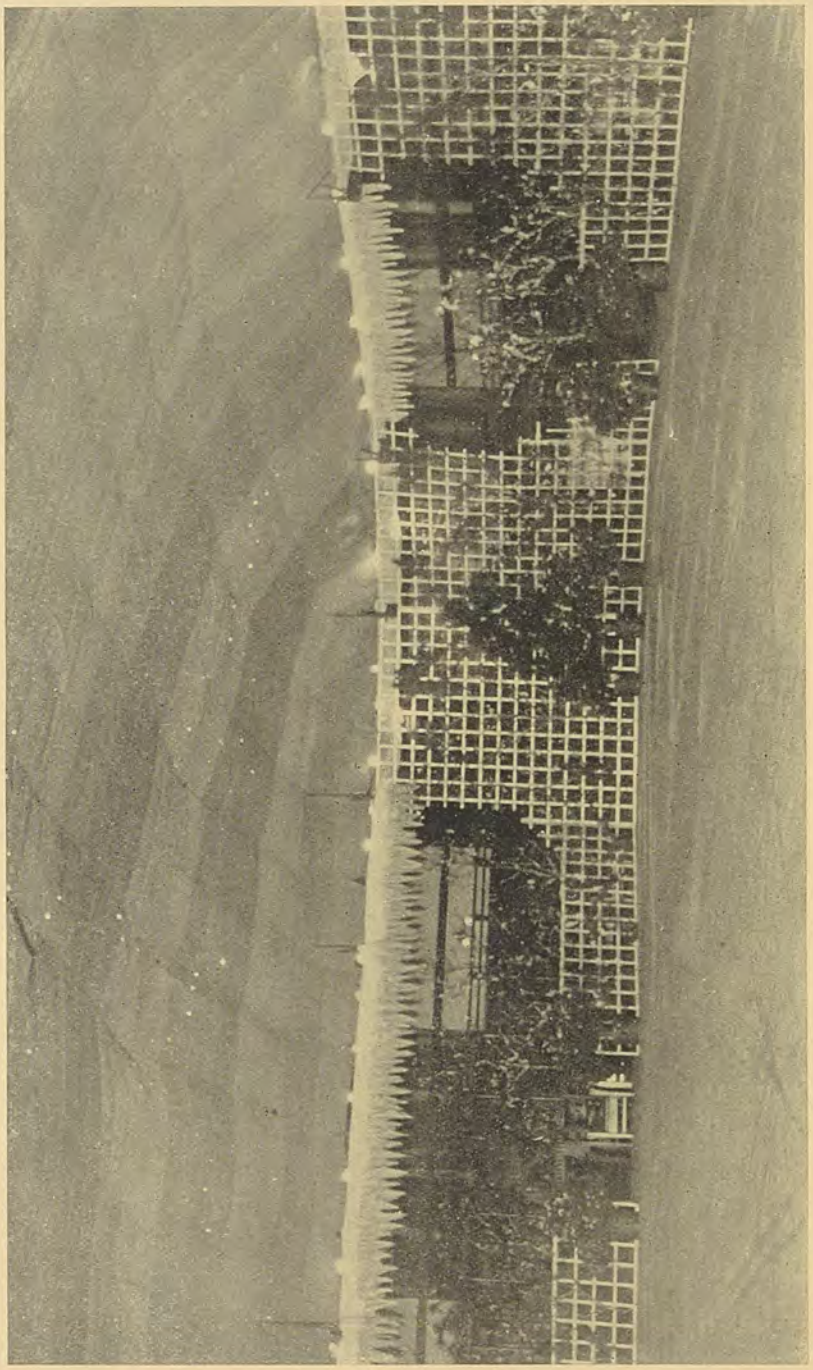

MUCH excitement occurred Dandelion Day, May 13, 1916, when a few live spirits of the Freshmen Class insisted on polling their votes for Mr. Willys Bliss as Freshmen Queen. These Freshmen worked with such ardor that for a long time Mr. Bliss easily outdistanced the field of blushing candidates at the polls.

Finally Clifford Taussig, President of the Student Council and master of the voting, raised his hand aloft and shouted, "No more votes will be counted for Mr. Bliss." His zealous supporters grumbled a bit, muttered something about "a big crook," then transferred their affections to another lady.

Miss Margaret Woods and Miss Mildred Wass fought it out count by count then until twelve o'clock. The vote then showed that Miss Wass had won by a small margin and she was accordingly crowned queen.

It is worth the trouble to be President of the Student Council when it comes to crowning Dandelion Day Queens.

The Junior Prom

Junior Prom Reflections

TEN o'lock Saturday morning, February 17, the little fellow with the close-cropped hair sat up in bed, yawned once or twice, and then grinned. He knew the 1918 Junior Prom had been a huge success. None of his wires supporting the ceiling had broken. He was happy. At various other places, other members of the Prom Committee were waking up and sighing with relief because their fuses had not blown out, or their lattice work had not fallen down, or their refreshments had not given out. For this reason they knew that the Prom was a success. But these little items must not be given room in the writing about the Prom. The names of the fellows who crawled out on those narrow beams will not long be remembered; but the dance itself —that's a different thing.

In the first place, kind Providence allowed the Prom to occur this year on a night when the weather conditions could not have been bettered. For the first time there was no blizzard or rainstorm. This was a pleasing novelty. As a result, the largest Prom crowd in the history of the University assembled at the Gymnasium.

Then the decorations were altogether pleasing. A great elaboration was not attempted. A simple, well-worked-out color scheme made the Prom the more beautiful by its absolute simplicity. Snow was everywhere. It covered the lattice work, the pine boughs, the great dead branches and, later on the dress clothes. Over all, the pale blue sky canopied the floor with its twinkling stars and wide blue expanses. It was indeed beautiful. Too much credit cannot be accorded to those who worked out this effect.

At eleven-thirty, refreshments were served. Then came the big surprise of the evening. The lights did not start to flicker and go out at twelve o'clock. Through permission of Dean McCaulley and Chancellor Hall, the dance was allowed to continue until one-thirty. This probably was the greatest hit of the evening.

When the orchestra had finally played the last few bars of "Home, Sweet Home" and the last stag had cut in on the fellows who had imported a queen all the way from Granite City, the 1918 Junior Prom, which even the Seniors admitted was a rather successful one, was over.

MAY DAY

PAGEANT

McMillan May Day

HAT HAPPENED IN THE GLEN," the May Day play, was artistically staged on the afternoon and evening of May 17. In spite of the time spent on the Elizabethan Pageant this year, the seventy girls who took part entered into the traditional event with such hearty enthusiasm that it resulted in the most successful as well as the most popular May Day fete that has ever been produced by the Co-eds of the University. It was a beautiful play laid in fairyland, portraying the struggle of a fairy's love against that of a mortal. The action is based on the conquest of an Eastern talisman which is supposed to bring the possessors wealth, power and happiness.

The prologue introduces Marieta, queen of the Eastern fairies, curled up in a crocus cup, fast asleep. On awakening she is seized by a huge cricket who holds her until Petie, an English soldier, rescues her. The play then opens with the entrance of Jacelyn and Madge, who tell of the arrival of the English fairies with the talisman, which they have stolen from a band of eastern fairies. It is to be brought to the glen that very night where the soldiers are to guard it. The soldiers enter and with them come the villagers who join in a sprightly dance and soon hurry away. Two soldiers, Petie and Will, are left to guard the stolen treasure, but Marieta enters and soon charms them into a deep sleep by her sleep-dance. Marieta again dances before the talisman, this time joined by her loyal subjects, the eastern fairies. As they are about to depart with this priceless charm, Marjorie and her band of English fairies appear and demand that a chance be given to show themselves worthy of keeping the talisman. Marieta tells them that such a thing is impossible until one of the eastern fairies falls in love with an English mortal. It is then that she realizes that she is in love with Petie, one of the sleeping soldiers who rescued her from the cricket. So the talisman is returned to the English fairies who have rightfully won it and the spirits of the East retire.

A Football Mass Meeting

AT about eight o'clock there is somewhat of shouting. Someone sticks his head out of the Kappa Sig windows and blows a goodly blast on the famous old trombone. The cornetist among the Sig Nus begins to play his instrument violently. Then of a sudden the crowd realizes that there is a football mass meeting that night. They rush wildly to the Gym.

Now is the time when the band assembles. The band is usually composed of about twenty-nine Dents and two or three College men. It has never been fully explained why the Dents are always the musicians, but it seems that they are. Why should a man who expects to spend the greater part of his later life with his fingers in some other person's mouth, learn to play the flute. It beats us.

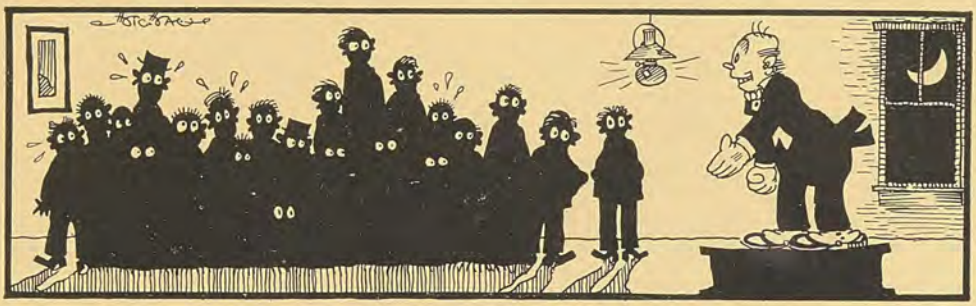

At 8:15, all the athletes who have never seen the inside of a gymnasium before, are busy throwing baskets, pulling chest weights and swinging on the rings. This is another strange thing that has never been explained to us. Why is that, when the gymnasium is open nearly always for athletic purposes, these fellows take pleasure in showing their gymnastic prowess only when the gym. is used for something else.

Well, pretty soon the Glee Club assembles and breaks forth into song. Remember, football meetings are held early in the fall, so the Glee Club isn't really so good as it will be later on. In fact, they say the inside of the gym. is an awfully poor place to sing.

The President of the Student Council arises and says, "Fellows, I guess you know why I called you together out here. (Great applause. This is the cleverest speech the President has ever made.) I guess you know the team's going to beat St. Louis to-morrow. (Loud and continued applause. This is great. Someone must have written it for him.) But all you fellows have gotta come out and help 'em do it. (Say, boy, this is a speech. Where did he ever get it?) But I'm not going to talk any longer. (A great burst of applause.) I'm going to ask somebody you all know to speak to you. Coach Edmunds is here and is going to address you."

Cheers are given for the Coach. The crowd is all with the Coach. He is too big to be against. He comes forward and stands with his hands in his hip pockets.

"Fellows, you know I'm not much on talking. (Oh, you modest old thing.) But first I want to say that compulsory gym. work will begin next week for Sophomores and Freshmen. Credit will be given for this work. No one can graduate without these credits. (By this time the crowd is fairly bubbling over with enthusiasm.) I want all you fellows who are signed up for the swimming pool to hand in your pledges this week. (At this time the crowd's enthusiasm knows no bounds.) Our team is pretty well shot to pieces this year and I don't know what we'll do to-morrow, but next year we're going to have a fine team." (The crowd all cheer because they are intensely interested in next year just at present.)

The Coach shuffles back into the crowd and the President arises again. "I see an old fellow back there in the crowd," he says, "that I know you will all be glad to hear talk. Fellows, I'm going to call on old Snoozer Boob, '0x." (Big cheer.)

Snoozer speaks: "Fellows, I played back here in '0x and I guess you know what we did to St. Louis. We trotted out on the field with half the team on crutches and the other half had their arms in a sling. Talk about equipment! We didn't even have pants. But boys, we sure went after their hide. They only beat us 78 to 0, but that didn't half show the relative merits of the teams—they should have beat us 156 to 0. I remember what a game little Parvus Puer played that day. He was our quarterback and only weighed 101 in his overcoat. When he caught a punt he used to have to throw out an anchor to keep it from carrying him back over the goal line. But I won't talk any more. I'm going to be out there to-morrow and I don't want to see any Washington man leave the field until he has six St. Louis scalps hanging to his belt." (Great Cheers.)

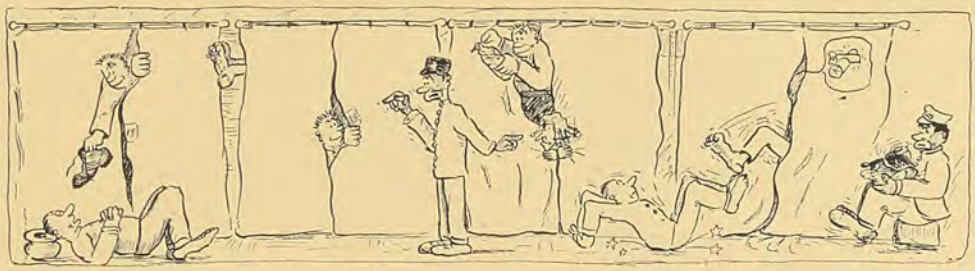

The band begins to play. The students fall in line and march to Garavelli's.

Such is a mass meeting. If you have not attended one you have much to live for.

The Class Scrap

Let This Photogravure
Ever Commemorate
The Class Scrap of the Year 1916.
Much Unfavorable Comment Antedated It.
Much Enthusiasm Accompanied It.
Much Recuperation was Needed After It.
But Nevertheless this Scrap Really Happened.
From Now Until the End of Time Those Who Participated in It
Can Tell Their Followers of the Grand Old Scrap of 1916.

The Michigan Trip

SINCE the time that a dozen or so fellows battled their way from St. Louis to Crawfordsville, the desire to follow the team has been growing among the students at Washington. This year that desire reached its maximum when it was necessary to procure a whole train to carry the bunch up to Ann Arbor, Michigan.

This was probably the most-talked-of event of the year. The fellow who took the leading part in the Thyrsus Annual was of little consequence in the eyes of the boys when compared to the man who took the porter's cap on the Michigan train. Fellows who slept side by each in an upper berth of a Tourist car felt more bound together than those bound by the mystical rites. And say, how the boys did learn to appreciate the girls who had brought food with them.

The trip was not luxuriously comfortable. In fact, when there are two yelling, roughhousing people to every lower and two growling, fighting people to every upper berth, the chances are that there will be some little discomfort. Of course, there was no diner on the train, which made it rather uncomfortable on the return trip when the train did not get in until three in the afternoon. But it was these same discomforts which made the trip a huge success.

If it had been a sober, luxurious, fat old gentleman's trip, we would have had no tales to hand down to posterity. Now we may always be able to sit down at any time and narrate at length concerning "them grand old days" when the whole campus emigrated to Michigan in the wake of the team.

An Illustrated Life of Ben Schulze

FULL many a year ago there was born in a small frame house on the very northernmost extremity of St. Louis (then but a small river town without even a Lock and Chain) a small, chubby-faced youngster, who from the very first minute of his existence began to exhibit an amazing amount of intelligence and precocity. His doting parents almost immediately named him Ben, adding, of course, the family name Schulze as a matter of form.

Little Ben, for that is what everyone called him, soon learned to put forth all that was in him in whatever he undertook. Glance for a moment at the upper picture on the opposite page. Notice how the little man holds his mouth, nose and eyes well open, his arms pressed firmly to his sides and his feet at an angle of one hundred and eighty degrees to each other. The signs of active greatness were even then cropping out.

We next see little Ben when he has grown from babyhood into young striplinghood. He has gone in for manly sports, for he seems to always carry a hoople with him. Indeed, it is said that at this time Ben was so often with his hoops that he contracted a slight ulceration of the lungs which later developed into a disease which is known as the "hoopin" cough, a very rare disease almost unknown in these times. It was at this time that Ben began to show the first signs of a keen insight into the affairs of men. Once Ben picked up a small rock and hit the iceman in the head with it. When the uproar had subsided, friends asked of little Ben why he had done it. "I wanted to see if it would hurt him," answered the little fellow. All marveled at the child's sagacity.

But as Ben grew older he was not content with the pleasures of his childhood. He thirsted for greater worlds to conquer. He desired to become a civil engineer. (At this time he had never heard of Applied Mechanics or Qualitative Analysis.) He had a vision in which he saw himself conquering Washington University as he had conquered the Alley Rats. So packing his little nightie and toothbrush in a red kerchief and putting on his only suit of neatly patched brown homespun, he set out for the great University.

Four years elapse and we see in the last picture, Ben the Scholar, Ben the Leader—Ben the Man. He stands at ease in front of University Hall in his neat blue outing suit. No more is he known as Little Ben. The youth who once rolled hooples and had pictures taken while barefoot, now stands before us in an easy but firm pose, the nostrils dilated, the hands along the pant seams and the legs crossed diagonally in front to hide the hole in the stocking. Conquered worlds are placed at his feet. Nothing is above his shoulders.

Washington University,

Dear Ma:

I am enjoying my first few days here at the Dromedaries very much. So far I have been very fortunate in securing necessaries very cheaply. You remember that beautiful yellow radiater which was in my room. Well last night I rented it so that I can have it all this year. Last night Mr. Busiek and Mr. Schwartzenbach, the fellows who had this room last year, came in and started to take it out. I offered them ten dollars if they would let it stay. They thought about it a while then said they'd let me have it for five if I would promise not to turn on the heat on cold nights.

Today I got my Chapel tickets from Ralph Hill. He let me have them cheaper as he said he comes from Arkansas too and us Arkans must all stick together. With these tickets I can get in Chapel every Wednesday free and if the choir sings more than once I get ten cents back. The season ticket saves you about four dollars.

I made several purchases from a senior named Lee Harrison. He has a fine stock of college clothes which he sells to Freshmen every year. I bought a pair of high boots from him which he says everybody needs for the heavy snows and when passing the Law School. He says he will let me have a Ladies Embalmers sign for a double barreled shot gun. Please send me my gun right away.

Fat Hastings who is in his second year here lives right near me. He has invited me to a party which the Sophomores are giving to the Freshmen tonight. He says the Sophomores give a party to certain Freshmen in the fall of every year and he says I am the very kind of a Freshmen they like. He told me to wear plenty of old clothes. I think that I will wear my new suit. It's always well to look decent you know.

So far I have subscribed to a number of University publications; Student Life, The Hatchet, The Eliot Magazine and the University Catalog. I don't know when I will have time to read all these but I must show my school sprit and subscribe. Also Geo. Nagel, a business-like young fellow, is offering me a typewriter if I sell two subscriptions for the Eliot and collect the money.

Tell Mr. Woodruff at High School that I haven't done much debating yet as the fellows up here aren't so very enthusiastic over it. I shall organize a Ciceronian Society later.

Good-by John.

P.S. I think I need a little more money very much.

How They Get Them

KAPPA ALPHA.—The cringing rushees are marched to the rooms in regular formation. Walter Bode sits at the piano stool and Cliff Taussig lays on the top of the piano with his guitar. They play madly. The rushees are ragged to the ragged edge of pledgment. If any further inducements are needed the rushees are taken out to look at Ed Thomas' house.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON.—The parties are always held on Tuesday so as not to interfere with high school fraternity meetings. Charley Johann and Sam Foote appear at seven-thirty with fifteen picked from the best, the very best, of Soldan High School. A short but snappy minstrel show is then given by the Sig Alph freshmen. Freddy Schwarz and P. Meier are overcome and run shrieking from the room at ten o'clock. Tom Dawson and Pete Johnson lead the regular ones out into the night when things begin to drag.

BETA THETA PI.—The youths are slowly hauled to the rooms in Henry Duncker's machine until they all arrive about half past ten. From this time on they are shown Beta alumni from Dog Krause to David R. Francis until they reach a very receptive state of mind. The brothers then sing suggestive songs about "You'd Better Come and Pledge Now," until a late hour.

THETA XI.—Everyone appears in old clothes. The brothers who are members of the football and basket-ball teams stand at the doorway. The other brothers and the rushees form in line outside the door. The evening is spent in determining whether the athletes can keep the others out of the rooms. Meanwhile, Ben Roberts manipulates the player-piano in good style.

ALPHA KAPPA DELTA.—Here is where the high school boy gets his first taste of real college life. While the rushees sit around and gaze admiringly at Tom Horn's exquisite new lilac socks, Syl Horn, the Douglas brothers and Fred Jostes render good old college songs, in true harmony. Herb Bryant impersonates the rough college husky and Coeur de Lion Addington shows the latest dancing steps in his boy scout suit.

PHI DELTA THETA.—Each rushee is first initiated into all the mysteries of Lee Harrison's room. This takes up a lot of time. Then Poge Lewis is exhibited for at least an hour. Then if it isn't late enough for Frank Scott to begin the serious stuff, Shorty Hill gives the Arkansas laugh until things are set nicely. The party is then a success if Jim Preston doesn't put in his appearance.

KAPPA SIGMA.—At a given signal, the bunch divides into two squads. Pete Pemberton, Hollocher, Venable and Leschen take the boys from McKinley and Yeatman into Stewart's room and tell them about the grand old days. Copies of Jack Powell's picture are passed out. Ed Nix, Hixon Kinsella, Kendall Harrison take the remainder into the quiet ante-room and discuss fluently the influence of Wordsworth on modern poetry. Copies of the "Eliot Magazine" are passed out. Stupp sits about with a far away look on his face.

SIGMA NU.—Someone plays "Oh, Johnny" on the piano for two hours and a half. The members laugh loudly and join in the chorus at the end of each verse. When this program is finished, it is repeated again. And so on.

SIGMA CHI.—The victrola is set going early in the afternoon so that it may have a running start at the rushees. Wyllys Bliss begins to follow it on the mandolin as soon as the first of the uninitiated put in their appearance. If this music does not subdue the bunch inside of an hour, a hurry call is sent for Harry Payne. Oyster patties and hot coffee are served. The Sig Chis are strong on food.

Military

THE calling of the Washington members of the First Regiment to the colors on Monday, March 26, brought home vividly to the University the international situation and its effect on Washington. Before noon plans were made for a mass meeting on Francis Field. The news spread quickly over the campus and it was estimated that two hundred and twenty of the two hundred and eighty men on the "hill" reported. The men were quickly divided up into squads and assigned to some man who had had training. Francis Field was dotted with clumps of men marching and countermarching, practicing turns, standing at attention, in short, doing things that were strange and about which they had only a slight knowledge.

When it was learned that the faculty were to meet that evening, rumors as to what was to be done flew about the campus. Some said that the University was to be closed, others that military training would immediately be started. On the bulletin boards the next morning was posted the notice that all those enlisting would be given credit for the semester's work and Seniors, in good standing, would receive their degrees. Mystery, however, still remained. It became known that the faculty had made certain recommendations to the Corporation.

Drills were again held on Wednesday and Friday afternoons with the same enthusiastic response from the students. The faculty and Washington's foreign students were also represented.

While waiting for news of the Corporation's actions, nothing but war talk went the rounds of the University. Wherever a flag could be secured it was hung from a window. The walls of the dormitories were gay with colors. On Friday, the architects paraded on the Quad. with their T-squares on their shoulders. Standing at attention before Cupples I, a flag was slowly raised to the top of a staff which they had placed there.

Announcement was made on Saturday morning that an officers' training corps would be established and a military training course of two years would be elective.

L'Envoi

In the pages which have gone before, we have faithfully tried to gather together those things of interest and importance which have happened at Washington during the past year and shape them into an annual for those of us to whom they have meant so much. We have put forth every effort to avoid mistakes in names, cuts and records. If there be any such, we are sorry. There are many chances for improvement, each year, in a book of this sort, and in seeking to realize them, we have made many changes in form. We have, above all else, tried to make this volume interesting and it is our desire that we shall have pleased everyone.

In looking through the pages which follow it is hoped that every student will remember that the firms which favored us with an advertisement made it possible for this book to be published, and deserve much consideration on that account alone. They advertised because they want —and expect—the favor of Washington students, and we cannot expect them to continue to advertise unless they receive this favor. It is thus a matter of college spirit, as well as fairness to the advertiser, to give your patronage, whenever possible, to the firm which advertises in a university publication. By making use of the Classified List of Advertisers to be found in the back of this book, on the bulletin boards, and in the Pralma Guide Book, you will be showing the same sort of spirit you do by coming out to root for the team. Don't forget that YOU are one of those who can help to make the publication at this university an assured success.

BEAUTY More Than Varnish Deep

Though it be clad in the beauty of a thousand stars, yet if it has not truth it is an abomination.

A well proportioned body and a sleek surface may cover, to the eye, a multitude of sins.

The Marmon 34 has the beauty of simplicity; the perfect line, the graceful curve, the delicate balance, and the poise that power gives.

Unadorned, undecorated, without frills or furbelows, the Marmon 34—exquisite in every detail of refinement—is a joy to the beholder.

But lift the hood and gaze into the heart and soul of the car—the engine. Here is where character is disclosed; here are truth and honesty, intelligence and experience.

Examine the bearings, consider the oiling system, count the grease cups, note the rear axle design, challenge the steering device.

Weigh it, test it, examine every detail—the Marmon 34 welcomes microscopic inspection.

Then ride in it, drive it—a quick turn through crowded traffic, a long stretch through open country.

Beauty is truth, truth beauty. In this belief the Marmon 34 is built.

The Board of Education Chose This Milk—

Bearing in mind the health of the hundreds of pupils who eat daily in the St. Louis High Schools lunch rooms, the Board of Education selected exclusively for their use, because of its richness, purity and freshness.

Visit the Farm

at Pacific, Mo.—it is typical of the many farms where Union Dairy Milk is produced. Situated among the picturesque hills and rich valleys of the Meramec, pure, healthful milk is produced here under ideal conditions. The most searching laboratory tests prove the purity of Union Dairy Milk and Cream.

Capitalize Your Education!

Why not capitalize your education? How much is it worth? How much has it cost?

The only way that you may be certain that its value will not be lost to your family is by covering it with Life Insurance.

A potential estate is immediately created for you upon the payment of the first premium on your policy.

The only way you can be sure to leave more than you are to-day possessed of, is through Life Insurance.

Will there be a break, between now and the time you become financially independent? Possibly the welfare of a family may be involved. Life Insurance will help you bridge the gap. It is your best friend in time of need.

SERVICE TO POLICY HOLDERS

CLASSIFYING TOTAL ABSTAINERS

IN LIFE INSURANCE RECEIVES ENDORSEMENT OF

The National Inter-Church Temperance Federation

The Federation, through its officiary, commends the system of classifying those totally abstaining from the use of alcoholic beverages, which is in operation with the

Security Mutual Life Insurance Company

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

The recent investigations of the Federation have disclosed only two old line legal reserve companies in North America, one in the United States and one in Canada, which at present maintain a separate classification for abstainers.

The Security Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Binghamton, N. Y., is the only old United States legal reserve or old line company classifying abstainers.

The Perfection Endowment Policy having all the benefits of any endowment policy at practically the cost of an Ordinary Life Policy is the ideal one for a young man, and can be taken out only in this company.

UNIVERSITY SPIRIT

WITH every contemplated purchase should go the thought, "Can I just as easily get it from a firm which advertises in a University publication as from one which does not?" With but one or two exceptions every regular advertiser at the University is found in the Hatchet. Consequently you need only consult the Alhpabetical List of Advertisers on the bulletin boards, in the Hatchet, or in the Pralma Guide Book, to find out whether a certain company advertises at Washington. If it does not, look in the Classified Index to be found at the same places for a company in a similar business which does advertise. To favor the latter, making known your reason for so doing, is as much a matter of University spirit as the performance of any other act tending for the general good of Washington. Spread the idea among your friends.

The Hatchet ticket you bought may be good for one of them.

RETURN THE FAVOR

THE entire Hatchet Board wishes to call your attention to the fact that the firms which advertise in this book deserve your patronage. You can decide for yourself how much they deserve it by considering the fact that the book could not possibly have been sold for less than $4.00—without the income from advertising. Between trading at one or another of two first-class firms, there is seldom any reason for not trading with the one which advertises in the Hatchet. To find out which firms advertise at Washington it is only necessary to look in the Classified List of Advertisers on the bulletin boards or in the Pralma Guide Book. Show your university spirit by making use of these lists whenever you are thinking of making a purchase of any kind.

LEAHEY'S HEATLESS Trouser Press

presses your trousers by automatic heatless method that removes baggy knees, smooths away wrinkles and gives a knife-like crease from belt to boot. A Presser, a Creaser, a Stretcher and a perfect Hanger that keeps them always protected from dirt and moths, combined in one.

No Operating Expense—First Cost is Last Cost.

$1.00 pays for pressing bills all your life. It is the greatest money, time and labor saving invention for men since the safety razor.

To get a Trousers Press on trial, see any member of the Hatchet Board.

When you think of buying, think of the Hatchet advertisers.

About the Measure of Printing——

Every piece of printing you order measures to some standard.

Either up to the standard of quality—or down to a standard of "price."

And in the production of your printing, every hour of time is a cost that you pay for—but only every hour of efficiently directed work produces a value that you get.

The Britt Standard of Quality at always the Right Price—is maintained by a definite system of getting the greatest value in results from every hour of time put on each job.

THE HATCHETS
OF TWO INSTITUTIONS OF "QUALITY"

Washington University, founded on George Washington's Birthday, has sought always to uphold those high standards of excellence which were followed by the Father of Our Country. The quality of the HATCHET, the Annual published by its students, is an example of the fine work done by those who attend such an institution. It is an example by which the excellence of the University itself may be judged.

Simmons Hardware Company, known throughout the world, is an institution founded on the principle that Quality comes first. Their trade-mark, KEEN KUTTER, has come to stand for—and to mean—Quality.

The KEEN KUTTER Hatchet, an example of the high grade tools sold by this company, is made to last a life-time and will be kept just as long as is your Washington U. HATCHET. Why not associate, then, by taking a course of training in this institution. No matter what line of work you expect to follow, we can train you to excel, for the broad foundation laid in our college can be supplemented, at will, by special work in our various schools.

Prepare for Success

THE COLLEGE provides the standard, Classical, University course, leading to the A. B. degree. This is the best foundation upon which to build a special course in any of the following schools.
G. O. James, Ph. D., Dean.

ENGINEERING or ARCHITECTURE is taught in the most modern and thorough fashion in our schools devoted to these subjects. A. S. Langsdorf, M.M.E., Dean.

MEDICINE as taught in Washington University Medical School is abreast of the best medical practice of the age. Phillip Shaffer, Ph.D., Dean.

LAW, as taught in Washington University Law School, fits the graduate for practice and equips him with thorough knowledge of the principles of the profession. Richard L. Goode, A.M., LL.D., Dean.

SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS—Here careful training is given in the principles of Art, and students of artistic talent are put in the way of achieving fame and fortune. Edmund H. Wuerpel, Director.

DENTAL SCHOOL, J. H. Kennerly, M.D., D.D.S., Dean, fits its students for the profitable practice of Dentistry.

HENRY SHAW SCHOOL OF BOTANY is not excelled by any similar institution in America in the practical training it affords its students. George T. Moore, Ph.D., Director.

Parents interested in the success of their sons and daughters, and young men and women interested in their own success should write to G. W. Lamke, Registrar, Room 200 University Hall.
